10 Reasons Why NYC Is the Best
During the Holidays

Millions of tourists flock to New York each winter to celebrate the most magical time of year in a metropolis that certainly knows how to put on a show. From Washington Square Park to the Chrysler Building, the city's beloved landmarks get all dressed up for the season. Rooftops sparkle in the moonlight. Store windows shimmer. And the crowds are everywhere. Add it all together, and it's a lot to take in. Which is why we've decided to mix old favorites and some newer finds to prove that the holidays in New York aren't all endless lines and busy crosswalks. Between two avenues in Brooklyn and down Fifth Avenue, there are still treasures to find. You just have to know where to look.

Window shopping has never looked so good: This season, let the Triumph Hotels Holiday Window Walking Tour guide you through the streets of Manhattan to witness spectacular holiday displays at Lord & Taylor, Bergdorf Goodman, Saks Fifth Avenue, and more. The guided tour is complimentary, which inevitably makes it a cheaper treat than anything you'll find inside the historic department stores.
